

I don't think fashion weeks will go back to what it used to be because people are making that the industry is completely changing.

Its not just in Bollywood. Even any movie, people are figuring out who their audience is, where they want to show. They aren't really playing by the rules. Its not so much about movie releases, these budgets.

Creating Legitimacy

3011

Flowing Elegance

3012

3001

3002

3003

3007

3008

3009

3004

3005

3006

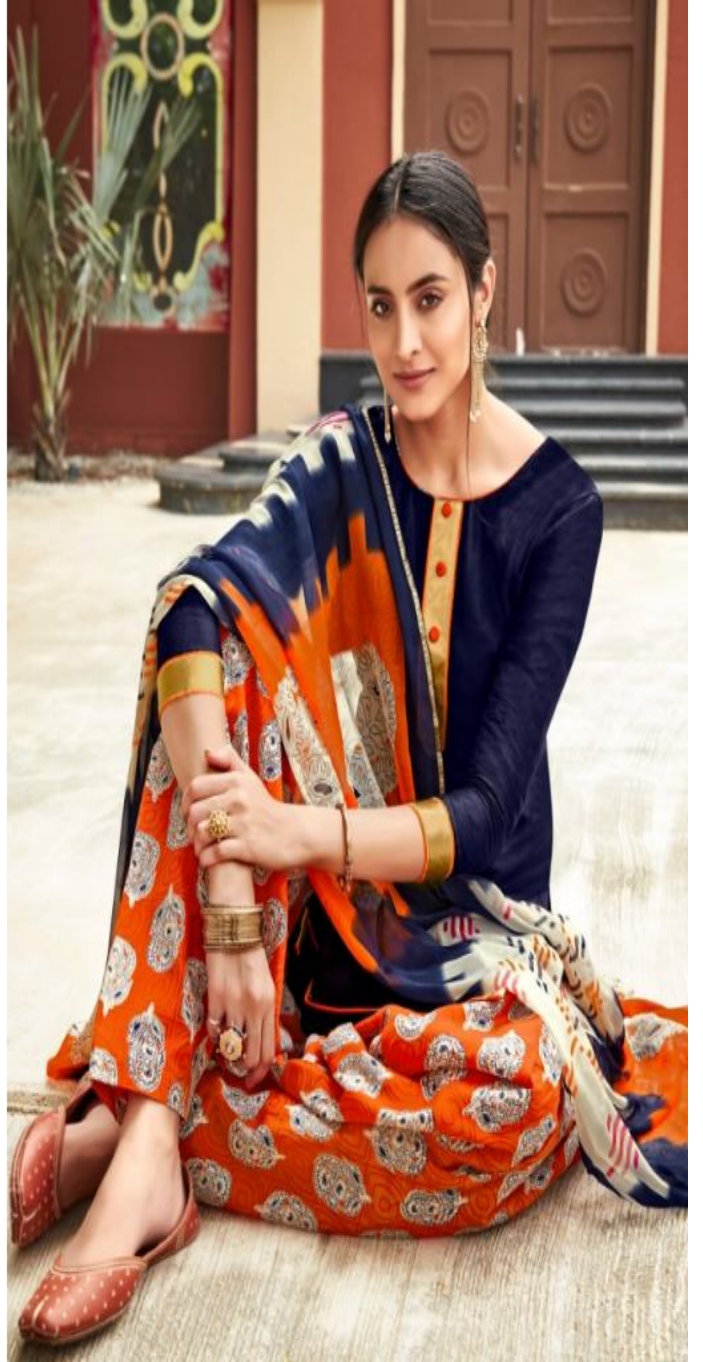

3010

3011

3012

3005

Style Statement

I don't think fashion week will go back to what it used to be because people are realizing that the industry is completely changing.

It's not just in Bryant Park any more, people are figuring out who their audience is, where they want to show, they aren't really playing by the rules. It's not so much about these editors, these buyers

Glamour

Expressive

3002

Style Statement

Present Yourself to the World

Present Yourself to the World

I don't think fashion week will go back to what it used to be because people are realizing that the industry is completely changing. It's not just in Bryant Park any more, people are figuring out who their audience is, where they want to show, they aren't really playing by the rules. It's not so much about these editors, these buyers.

Capturing Elegance

3006

